

AMERICAN MISSIONARY BRUTALLY SLAIN IN CHINA
BOMBARDMENT IS POSTPONED TILL SATURDAYSCHOLLES' ATTACK ON STONE GIVEN
SEC. EMMERSON

Demands Chief Justice
be Ousted as Candidate for Bench

Springfield, Ill., March 25—(AP)—In a petition filed today with Louis L. Emmerson, Secretary of State, Speaker Robert Scholles of the Illinois House of Representatives, demanded that the House impeach Chief Justice Clyde E. Stone, Peoria, be ousted as a candidate in the fifth supreme court district and his own name substituted.

Scholles declared in substance that Stone's friends resorted to trickery and deceit in certifying him as the successful nominee. He challenged the procedure by which his opponent was named at the Peoria convention and submitted affidavits in an effort to prove his own candidacy received the support of sixty-five delegates, a sufficient majority.

In more than twenty closely typed pages, addressed also to the ten county judges of the fifth district, Scholles sets forth ten specific items on which he contests Stone's certificate. He tells his story of the Stone coup and offers voluminous affidavits to support the amazing declaration of each page that Stone's "alleged certificate is untrue and void and originated in and was filed pursuant to an unlawful conspiracy to violate the laws of the state and deprive the republican element of their rightful privilege and prerogative."

Ten specific reasons were listed in the objections:

Stone's certificate is invalid because not properly sworn to and witnessed; places of residence of Omer N. Custer and Cecil C. McEvoy, signers as chairman and secretary, did not appear on the certificate; affidavits later filed containing these addresses did not correct the original mistakes; the certificate was not that of the republican party; Custer and McEvoy were not the presiding officer and secretary; Stone's certificate is invalid because Stone was not nominated as the republican candidate; Claude Brown was elected as presiding officer and William R. Teece, as secretary; the certificate is invalid because Scholles was the only republican nominee; Stone's certificate was issued without authority of any qualified officer of the convention; and Stone was named through trickery and deceit, and his nomination was irregular.

Scholles also submitted evidence to show his forty regular delegates were augmented by the Peoria delegation of twenty-five, giving him a total of sixty-five votes.

The Secretary of State's office acted immediately on the objections, filing with Attorney General Carlstrom before noon a copy and asking for an opinion on construction of statutes in the case.

The question to be decided is as to whether the state board, consisting of the attorney general, the secretary of state and the state auditor, or the ten county judges of the district, has jurisdiction in the case.

Polo Attorney Scores

Polo—The petition bearing 51 signatures and asking that the matter of levying a vehicle tax in Polo be put to a vote of the people at the coming election has been criticized by County Attorney Brand, who terms it a "straw vote to merely determine the public sentiment. LIQUID FIRE IS USED TODAY IN FIGHT ON BORER

State Directs the Battle on Kankakee County Farms Today

Kankakee, Ill., March 25—(AP)—A crew of men representing the Department of Agriculture of Illinois together with federal forces went into action today in the corn borer warfare in Kankakee County.

Two burners, each spraying an intense flame 20 feet wide, are at work on the Frank Love farm in Yellow Bird township where the first corn borer in Illinois was found. Three more are at work on the Floyd McKinstry place nearby.

This baptism of fire administered as a safeguard against danger from the pest infestation exists is considered the best eradication method in localities where limited infestation exists.

In an especially equipped oil tank, fuel is kept under air pressure of about 350 pounds. From this tank long lines of hose lead to the burner. Burners are of light frame construction and are mounted on two wheels. They treat a swath of about 20 feet and are moved by man power. They proceed across the field of corn stubble as rapidly as the men dragging the hose can walk.

From this point as outlined on the "war map" fields that must be burned first to permit early action sowing need prompt attention. Work will continue uninterrupted so long as the fields remain dry enough to permit.

WEDNESDAY EVE.

Deputy Grand Master
Stauffer of Dix-

The new Masonic hall in Amboy was formally dedicated Wednesday evening and was an occasion of joy and happiness and one long to be remembered by the various Masonic bodies of Amboy. The ladies of the Eastern Star proved themselves more than equal to the occasion by serving a fine banquet in the new beautifully decorated dining room adjoining the lodge room at 6:30, the banquet room being filled to capacity.

The lodge room was filled by members and friends of Illinois Central lodge, No. 178, at 8 o'clock, when the dedication services began. H. W. Stauffer, of Dixon, district deputy Grand Master of this district, was master of ceremonies. He was assisted by several Grand Lodge officers and Past Masters of Illinois Central lodge, the service being beautiful and impressive. Following the dedication, Attorney P. M. James, the oldest living Past Master of Illinois Central lodge, gave a very inspiring address, calling attention to the good fellowship that has always existed in the lodge and out of which has come this splendid achievement. Attorney James has always been a wise counselor in Masonic affairs.

Dr. T. W. Dornblaser, another Past Master of Illinois Central lodge, gave a very helpful talk on the splendid influence of Masonry in general.

Harry W. Stauffer in the closing address, paid a very high tribute to the influence of Masonry throughout the world and the necessity of throwing the strong arm of protection around the youth of our land today, also complimenting the Amboy Masonic bodies very highly on their splendid achievement and spirit of co-operation manifest through it all. Illinois Central lodge, Amboy Chapter, R. A. M. and the Order of the Eastern Star may well feel proud of their new quarters.

EDITOR IS STILL ON STAND TODAY
IN SAPIRO SUIT

Million Dollar Trial Moves
Slowly: Little Developed

Detroit, Mar. 25—(AP)—Aaron Sapiro's demand upon the Ford-owned Dearborn Independent made no difference in the weekly's editorial procedure. William J. Cameron, editor, testified today in Sapiro's $1,000,000 libel suit against Henry Ford.

Cameron testified that he laid Sapiro's demand for a retraction before the automobile manufacturer, who also is president of the company, and that Ford dismissed it with a wave of the hand and the remark:

"Well, if you are wrong, take it back; if you are right, stick to it."

Cameron testified that by numerous inquiries the alleged libelous articles were investigated before publication and that he thought Fred L. Black, business manager, initiated an investigation after receipt of Sapiro's demand for retraction.

Editorial department made no investigation said Cameron.

"We can and will prove that these articles were suspended until April 12, 1924 at Henry Ford's order, editor of the Dearborn Independent, and that Ford dismissed it with a wave of the hand and the remark:

"Well, if you are wrong, take it back; if you are right, stick to it."

A moment later he referred to the suit filed with Mr. Ford did not discuss resumption of these articles.

Cameron still was on the witness stand with his interrogation apparently from completion when called adjourned for lunch.

Five days on the witness stand have been an existence nineteen times monosyllabic or absolutely silent for Cameron.

Cameron was gaged by a battery of questions at every attempt to answer. Cameron has made only two statements regarded as of importance and he uttered the words of them in an obviously hostile, reluctant manner.

Interrogation of Cameron thus far has produced little more direct evidence than his statements that Ford, as president of the publishing company, delegated supreme authority to him and that he edited outside news papermen's wiretype of interviews with Ford.

Future Is Big Guess

Opposing counsel came into court today prepared for anything or nothing. There have not been enough set procedure since the famous suit was started nearly two weeks ago for one to have a guess as to the probable trend.

Cameron still was on the witness stand for the sixth day and in the background was Fred L. Black, business manager of the Independent, ready for days, to be called to testify.

"The bishop is really in much better health today than he was on his departure for Chicago last June," the Rev. Fr. Lawrence Prendergast, secretary to the prelate, said. "We are more than pleased at the results obtained by his long rest and the hospital treatment."

Impressed by Tributes
Arriving in Rockford at 6:20, the prelate was met by the Rev. F. E. Connor, chancellor of the diocese and pastor of St. Peter's church. The time of his arrival had been kept a secret to avoid any demonstration.

Rooms Banked With Flowers
The living rooms in the rectory were literally banked with palms, ferns, baby's breath, roses, spirea and Easter lilies.

In a statement issued through his secretary, Bishop Muldoon expressed his appreciation for the thoughtfulness of friends here and throughout the diocese and the prayers that summer due to the prelate's illness will be formulated immediately after Easter, according to an announcement made today.

LEGISLATORS UN-LIMITED IN IN-VESTIGATION NOW

Washington, Mar. 25—(AP)—Unlimited immediate arrangements are made for the safety of foreign lives in Nanking, military points in the city will be shelled by British and American warships.

Flat notice to this effect has been served on the Cantonese leaders by Admiral Williams commanding the American forces in Asiatic waters.

Nanking, nominally listed as an un-defended city, could not be bombarded under ordinary circumstances, but after the killing yesterday of Americans and other foreigners, the British and American commanders informed the Chinese officials that unless the situation was remedied, Nanking would be proclaimed a "military area." Such a proclamation would open it to whatever military operations were necessary to protect foreign lives.

"Insolent" Reply

The American commander-in-chief reported that he had received an "insolent" reply in response to the three demands made yesterday by the British and American naval authorities at Nanking. The reply was followed by the warning that military points would be fired on late this afternoon (Chinese time) unless the demands were complied with. Whether he has found it necessary to carry out the threat has not yet been reported to the navy department.

Admiral Williams at the time the report was forwarded, said he had been able to learn of the killing of only one American in Nanking, Dr. Williams of the Nanking University. One British sailor on the cruiser Emerald also was killed by snipers firing from the shore.

Two hundred and fifty American missionaries had sailed from Hankow for Shanghai and other steamers are being held in readiness at Hankow to evacuate the remaining Americans if necessary. A heavy movement of Chinese nationalist forces across the river from Hankow was reported.

Attended Rescue

Another dispatch from Admiral Williams sent at 4:43 p. m. today (Chinese time), said an attempt was made to rescue foreigners from Nanking, participated in by American and British representatives and local Chinese authorities.

At 11 p. m. (Chinese time), Admiral Williams said attempts to establish communication with foreigners in Nanking had been unsuccessful. He reported that the entire staff of the

Results in Action

Washington, Mar. 25—(AP)—Preparations for a bombardment by American and British ships at Nanking has been postponed until tomorrow because of a partial evacuation of the city by foreigners.

Notice has been served on the Cantonese commanders at Nanking, that salient military points would be shelled unless immediate guarantees of safety for foreign life were furnished. The bombardment was to have begun late this afternoon.

The admiral's report dated at 5:50 p. m., Nanking time said:

"As a result of the strong stand taken today by the forces here, the foreigners are beginning to come out of the city."

"The Japanese are completing their evacuation tonight. The British consul general and the missing marines are now coming off to the Emerald. It is now considered a fair possibility that the 129 Americans who took refuge in Nanking University will be evacuating to the ships (the destroyers Preston and Noa and the converted yacht Isabel) tonight."

Escaped Under Fire of Chinese Troops; Woman is Wounded

Washington, Mar. 25—(AP)—The murder of one American missionary and attempts to slay many others at Nanking was described in the report of American Consul J. K. Davis which was received today at the navy department.

The rescue of Mr. Davis was reported yesterday by Admiral Williams as follows:

"On March 24 about noon after both the Japanese and British consuls had been attacked and the consuls reported killed and after the known cold blooded murder of one American missionary and the attempted murder of many others, all by nationalist soldiers, the Chinese police informed me that we would be destroyed unless we could escape," Consul Davis said.

Escaped Under Fire
"Accordingly, our party of one officer, eleven sailors, nine civilians and two children escaped under constant fire across the country to the Society houses on Standard Oil Hill just above the city wall, which are visible from the river and where many Americans and British already were."

"Although repeatedly robbed and threatened by nationalist soldiers, my vice consul (J. H. Paxton of Danville, Va.) and the Society manager managed to keep them out of the house for two hours but they finally broke in and seeing our numbers they retired and commenced firing at us in ever increasing numbers."

"The American and British naval vessels then dropped shells immediately around the house and we escaped over the wall. The American consulate was forced by nationalist soldiers and is reported by the Chinese as thoroughly looted. It has not been ascertained whether or not the safe has been forced and the codes lost."

THE LIFE OF CHRIST

Jesus: Friend, Sight-Giver, Shepherd

Jesus goes to the home of Martha and Mary at Bethany. Martha, "cumbered about much serving," complained to Jesus about Mary not helping, but Jesus said, "One thing is needful, and Mary hath chosen that good part." (Luke X: 38-42)

Jesus saw a man born blind, and controversy arose concerning sin, affliction, and his wonder-working power. (John IX: 1-41)

Jesus put wet clay on the blind man's eyes and told him to wash in the pool of Siloam. His sight was restored. (John IX: 6-7)

Speaking to his disciples Jesus told them the Parable of the Shepherd, saying, "I am the good shepherd and know my sheep and am known of mine." (John X: 1-16)

OBITUARY

MRS. GODFRED FUESTMAN

Katherine Elizabeth Scheuer was born in Germany Feb. 24, 1841 and passed away at her home in Dixon, March 15, 1927. She was married to Godfred Fuestman March 10, 1860, in Peru, Illinois, and to the union were born ten children, two of whom, with their father, preceded her in death. Five sons, three daughters, sixteen grandchildren and nine great grandchildren are left to mourn the passing of a kind and devoted mother, who was loved by all who knew her. She was a member of the German Lutheran church and attended services there as long as her strength permitted. Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the late residence, Rev. Suechting officiating.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank those who so kindly expressed their sympathy during our recent bereavement.

fine car at the curbstone, while the mattresses on the children's beds are hard and uncomfortable. The far coat with theater tickets in the pocket and insufficient food on the table.

Expenditure is entirely a personal affair. It is not the world's business if one wishes to save at the spigot and waste at the bung hole. (Except about the children. I shall always reserve the right there to criticize.) But it is not honesty to one's self. That is the point I would make. It is like cheating one's self at roulette. There—they say—is the world's nearest man.

There is camouflage of place for instance. That is important. Why do people try to pretend that they are different? Why conceal their birthplace and the manner to which they were born? The true gentleman or gentlewoman who has scaled the ladder and has made good as we call it, will not conceal the identity of his forebears. Why? Because he wants to be honest with the public. Yes! But first because he knows he must first be honest with himself.

via her press agent—that she owes her inspired work to the tomato one-let which mama makes her just before she plays. But the beautiful one turns to mamma, soto voce, and says, "Wonder what would happen, mama, if I really did eat anything you cooked, I'd pass out for my public then!" Not that I'm saying Almee doesn't eat her grapefruit, mind you!

IT'S HONESTY TO YOURSELF

THAT COUNTS THE MOST—

By Olive Roberts Barton

There is an honesty that is not a matter of dollars and cents, or a matter even of telling the truth. It is honesty of self. I often think of an old song in "Emine," if any of you remember that opera. Two "thieves" sing it and it goes something like this: "Things are seldom what they seem, hidden milk masquerades as cream, Jackdaws strut in peacock's feathers"—and so on. I forget the rest. But it is as true today as it was then—truer indeed, in an age when material things mean too much and real things mean too little. The house with the Queen Anne front and the Mary Ann back, the

The WOMAN'S DAY by Allene Sumner

Another working girls' home is opened. Strictly speaking, a club home for business and professional women. Ann Morgan makes a speech. Music. More speeches. Hurrahs. Excitement. How many girls' homes, girls' clubs, girls' hotels there are! And how little one hears of men's homes, men's hotels, men's living clubs! Does it mean that even our modern, independent, self-sufficient, modern girl is not as self-sufficient as her brother even yet, but likes to be housed with those of her own kind "on top," as it were?

SOCIAL LAW SAFEGUARDS THE HOME—

By Olive Roberts Barton
We have several kinds of law. If it were not for the law that protects our land, anyone could walk over our lawns, pick our flowers, and break our hedges. If it were not for the law that protects our homes, anyone could cut his name on our front doors, camp in our halls, and eat our food.

Our money is protected by law, and was to the offender who takes it from us without fair exchange. Every possession that we have comes under the protection of one law or another, even unto wives and husbands.

There can be no group living nor community living in a civilized land unless these laws are obeyed. Laws are not made for our discomfort. They are made to render life safe and possible—and happy. The vandal is always ready and waiting to take that which is not his.

Social law is the law that protects home life. Social law is behind all federal and state law. It is the thing that keeps the vandal out of the home.

The minute a man and woman enter into marriage, the law throws its protecting mantle over them. And the law says to the world regardless of sex or relation, "Hands off!" It says to the disappointed lover who is inconsolable over the loss of his sweetheart "Keep away!" And he must keep away, for on what he does and not what the law says, alone, depends the fabric of our whole social system.

And the woman who is in love with a man who marries another

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Sliced bananas with ready to serve cereal, cream, spinach with poached eggs on toast, crisp Graham toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Tomato bouillon, toasted crackers, chicken and pineapple salad, whole wheat rolls, Spanish cream, milk, tea.

DINNER—Baked haddock with egg sauce, Saratoga potatoes, hot French slaw, vegetable salad, peach island, plain cake, milk, coffee.

The chicken salad is planned to use up the remnants from the roast chicken served for dinner the evening before. If you have never combined pineapple and chicken in a salad you have a treat in store for the fruit adds much to the interest of the dish.

The old combination of peaches, gelatine and whipped cream is something else again in the desert of "peach islands."

Peach Islands

One pint canned peaches, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatine, 4 tablespoons cold water, 1 orange, 1 cup whipping cream, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla.

Drain peaches from syrup in can. Add enough water to syrup to make 1 cup. Add sugar to syrup and bring to the boiling point. Stir in gelatine softened in cold water and remove from fire. When cool add juice of orange. Reserve about 4 tablespoons of this mixture, keeping it warm over hot water until needed. When remaining gelatine begins to thicken, beat with a Dover beater until frothy. Whip cream until firm and add vanilla and beat into gelatine froth. Pour into a shallow serving dish and dot with halves of peaches. Pour reserved syrup over each peach and put in a cold place to chill.

Woman's Bible Class Meeting

The committee had planned and carried out a very pretty spring program for the afternoon, with Mrs. A. W. Carlson, Mrs. A. D. George, Mrs. L. N. Deutsch and Miss Caille Morgan as entertainers for the happy afternoon. Spring flowers in lovely array were the decorations. Appetizing refreshments were served during the pleasant social hour following the program.

Palmyra Mutual Aid Meeting

A very good report on the food sale of last week was given. House Cleaning Hints which were interesting were given by Mrs. A. R. Beede and Mrs. Mark Williams. with abrupt and visionary eyes.

I saw the huddled tenements arise.

Here where the merry clover danced and shone

Sprang agonies of iron and stone;

There, where green Silence laughed or stood enthralled.

Cheep music blared and evil alleys sprawled.

The roaring avenues, the shivering mills;

Brochels and prisons on those kind-ly hills;

The menace of these things swept over me;

A threatening, unconquerable sea.....

A stirring landscape and a generous earth!

Freshening courage and benevolent mirth—

And then the city, like a hideous sore.....

Good God, and what is all this beauty.

The largest out of town delegation was from Dixon, with Minnie Bell Rebekah lodge being represented by twenty-four.

Mrs. Emma K. Robbins of Dixon, vice president of the General Assembly, was present, and was delightfully surprised when she was presented with a dozen beautiful Maderia linen napkins, presented by Mrs. Blanche Ackerson, Past Noble Grand of the Marco Polo lodge, in a gracious speech and accepted in happy little speech of thanks by Mrs. Robbins.

A program was given which included the following numbers:

Reading.....Chrystal Boddier

Piano solo.....Mabel Kitzmiller

Vocal Solo.....Lois Lord Reedy

Selection by Quartet

Mrs. Madge Folk, Mrs. Pearl Davis, Merritt Duell, George Miller.

A delicious two course luncheon was then served and much enjoyed by all present, completing a delightful evening.

ANSWERING CAIN'S QUESTION.

When Cain was accused of Abel's murder, he sought to sidestep by asking aggrievedly, "Am I my brother's keeper?"

Ever since then that same question has been raised by all the rest of mankind. We are asking it of ourselves right now; indeed, most of the social and political and economic problems of our day arise largely because part of us answer that question by saying "Yes" and part of us by saying "No."

A magazine writer recently answered "No." He wrote an article on "The Right to Live"; in it he declared that the assumption that society owes the individual a living is erroneous, and asserted that the only privileges a man deserves are those he can carve out for himself. He was quite bitter against unemployment pensions and the like, and attacked the British government for giving doles to the coal miners during the recent strike.

His article is interesting in that it voices the protest of what we might call the old order; for undeniably the tendency nowadays is to take the opposite view.

What is the outstanding bit of legislation passed in this country during the last ten years? The prohibition law, surely. And why was it passed? For one reason, because the majority of us feel that, in a sense, we are our brothers' keepers; that society, as a whole, is responsible for what may happen to its weaker or less fortunate members.

Child labor legislation is more of the same thing. So are the laws to protect women in industry; so are the movie censorship laws; so are the employment and accident insurance laws in so many states. The list can be extended by any reader, doubtless.

That the move toward this kind of laws is growing can hardly be denied. Despite protests we seem to be growing convinced that society has a duty toward its individual members; a duty to see to it that they shall be protected, even from themselves, if need be.

Some people, like the magazine writer, see in these laws increasing limitations on the freedom of the individual. That there is some limitation probably is a fact. But there is a larger significance.

We are answering "Yes" instead of "No" to Cain's question.

King Alfonso is coming over to America next year. We suspect it's propaganda by the big onion men.

Because she had to get meals for her husband an eastern woman wants a divorce. Men are so old-fashioned.

The United States has made rules for Nicaragua, but that doesn't seem to bother the revolting Chinese a bit.

A Cleveland girl puts on armor to cross the street. We wonder what happens when tin can meets tin can.

Famous maternal lines: "Why Willie! How did you ever get your knuckles so dirty?"

What are you giving up for Lent? Just look what Mr. Doheny parted with.

Scientists say that women are growing taller. We'd noticed that legs looked longer this year.

After Babe Ruth wrenched his ankle in an exhibition game at Orlando, Fla., he sobbed because the "kids" wouldn't get to see him make a home run. Never mind the kids, Babe, just think of Col. Ruppert!

President Coolidge is reported to have a slight sprain in his right wrist. "Justice," say the farmers.

The general assembly in an eastern state is considering taxing amusements. If this is carried along further perhaps the various state legislatures can be made to pay their way.

Senator Borah gave his pay raise back to the government. It was reported about the same time that several old Roman ruins were badly shaken up, supposedly from Diogenes getting uneasy in his grave.

A sport writer has one thing to be thankful for these days. He doesn't have to make any wise cracks about Sinclair Lewis.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

In half an hour, when old King Cole had finished with his pipe and bowl, he chatted with the Tinymites, and said, "You'll like it here. I'm glad much fine friends I have found. Why don't you Tinymites look around. The place is quite beautiful, and there is naught to fear."

"Oh, can we do that?" Copy said. The king replied, "Go right ahead. I'll even send a guard along to show you this and that." And so a nice guard started out to show the Tinymites all about. They laughed at how the guard was dressed, and at his funny hat.

His shoes had long and pointed toes, and where he got them, goodness knows. His blouse had all the colors that you've ever heard about. His pantaloons puffed in the breeze and hung above his knees. The Tinymites watched his antics then with laughter they would shout.

Each room they'd enter seemed more grand. The Tinymites couldn't understand how just one king could use the things that filled the palace great. With golden chairs and other things, enough for many, many kings, they found that he had put his home in quite a wonderful state.

They went from bottom to the top and then, of course, they'd stop and peek out through the windows at the scenery down below. Then Copy said, "Ah, there's a treat. I think I hear some music sweet. It comes from where the king is. That's the place where we should go."

So, back they went and found the king. They wondered if he'd start to sing, for round him stood three little men, as cheerful as could be. "Oh, I know them," wee Clowdy said. "Of them we all have often read. When King Cole wants some music, he just calls his fiddlers, three."

(The Tinymites see Jack-Be-Nimble in the next story).

SAINT and SINNER

Mary Kearney's story, frequently interrupted by District Attorney Banning, was substantially the same as she had told at the inquest, except for one important addition.

"When you were listening at the closed door of Mr. Cluny's bedroom while the defendant, Mrs. Wiley, was talking with Mr. Cluny, just what conversation did you overhear?" Banning asked.

"Well, sir, I heard Miss Cherry say first, 'I'm going to marry Chris and you can't stop me! I won't marry you, I won't.' 'I say! You can't force me to! I'll kill you if you do!'"

For the first time that long, terrible day Cherry showed emotion. Color flooded her pale, delicate face, her golden eyes shot forth lightning. Before Faith or Churchill could restrain her, she had half-risen in her seat, screaming out, "That's a lie! A lie!"

Pandemonium broke loose in the courtroom, even as the judge pounded with his gavel. Jim Lane rocked back and forth, groaning about, "My God! My God!" Faith put her arms about Cherry, held the hysterically sobbing girl against her breast.

"I don't care what they say as long as it's the truth," Cherry moaned over and over. "But that's a lie, a lie!"

"Mr. Churchill, you will instruct your client to restrain herself," the judge thundered. "And if the audience cannot control itself, I will clear this courtroom and proceed with the trial."

FIVE MEN PLAYED IMPORTANT PARTS FOR NICARAGUA

History of Present Disruption in Country is Outlined

Managua, Nicaragua.—(AP)—Five men have played the principal roles in the Nicaraguan affair.

Bartolome Martinez, as president of Nicaragua in 1923, made the first request that the United States marines be called from the country which they had kept peaceful since 1912, when they were assigned here. Martinez, a native of May Muz, an interior Indian village, as a conservative and vice president, became president upon the death in October, 1923, of President Diego Manuel Chamorro, uncle of Emiliano Chamorro. Martinez remained president until 1925, when a coalition ticket was elected.

Carlos Solozano, a conservative, was elected president and with Juan B. Sacasa, a liberal, as vice president, took office on a coalition ticket on January 1, 1926. At the same election nearly a score of liberal congressmen were given office.

Nothing that the coalition ticket had not met with complete approval and being cognizant of the political rumblings of disunion, Solozano asked that the time of the withdrawal of the marines, which had been agreed upon in Washington, be extended. This was done and when apparently everything was quiet, the marines departed from Nicaragua, on August 2, 1925.

Taken From Banquet.

On August 29, in the International Club, Managua, at a dinner at which 700 guests were present, including the American Minister, Charles C. Eberhardt, an armed band of conservatives entered, began shooting and forcefully took away to the Loma, a government fortress overlooking Managua, the majority of the liberal members of the congress and the president's cabinet. There under threats the prisoners were forced to tender their resignations and agree to leave the country or remain out of politics.

Though had this incident become known when Emiliano Chamorro, who previously had been president of Nicaragua, injected himself as a political and military figure and by various means won over the force at the government fortress Loma where the nation's munitions were kept and where a commanding position over Managua was maintained.

From the Loma, Chamorro announced himself as dictator and informed Solozano his resignation would be accepted. This move was made on October 25 and early in January of 1926, Solozano tendered his resignation, giving as his reason ill health. In March he left the country.

Without Chosen Officials

The Juan S. Sacasa in the meantime also had departed from Nicaragua and thus the country was left without either president or vice president duly and legally elected. Upon these grounds Chamorro had himself installed by the conservative congress as legal president.

Chamorro, however, had not counted the influence of the United States which nation had informed him almost before the fruition of his plans that he would not be recognized as president if he took office by force or coup d'etat, such being in violation of the Washington pact which Chamorro himself had signed for Nicaragua when he was president.

Realizing the futility of his efforts to gain recognition by the United States and other major foreign powers and in view of a revolutionary movement started in Bluefields on the East Coast in May, Chamorro resigned early in November and Sebastian Uriza was designated by congress as legal president.

gress to assume the presidency, there having been no vice president under Chamorro. Uriza served but ten days for congress soon was to reconvene.

Adolfo Diaz, who twice before had served as president of Nicaragua, was elected by the reconvened congress on November 9 to succeed Uriza. In this congress, in order to comply with the Washington pact, the expelled liberal members were reinstated and invited to vote but again due to real or fancied fear for their safety, the liberal party representatives were conspicuous by their absence for the most part. Diaz was installed as president the day following his election by congress and immediately was recognized by the United States.

Sacasa Protested.

Meanwhile Dr. Sacasa had made his home for a period in Guatemala, Salvador, and then in Washington, D. C., where he protested to the state department against the Chamorro coup d'etat claiming in the absence of the legal president, Solozano, he was the constitutional head of the government in Nicaragua and should be recognized and added as such. He attempted to establish his government on the soil of the Nicaraguan legation in Washington but was told that the legation had no status because of the coup of Chamorro and the absence of a legally elected executive from Nicaragua.

Being informed that he must return to Nicaragua before he could be recognized, Sacasa delayed because of continued fear for his life at the hands of the conservatives, claiming dire threats had been made against him. Finally after visiting Mexico and Guatemala and after learning of the recognition of Diaz, Dr. Sacasa returned to Nicaragua on November 30, 1926, to head the Liberal movement against the Diaz government on the ground that he was the constitutional president.

On December 1 at Puerto Cabezas, Dr. Sacasa, before a gathering of several hundred of his followers and with a cabinet and guard of honor, went through the formality of taking the oath of office as "constitutional president of Nicaragua" and there after made Puerto Cabezas his capital and seat of government. He gained immediate recognition by Mexico.

SERVING FOR 35 YEARS

Self-Pity Fatal to Success Says Cripple

Louisville, Ky., Mar. 25—(AP)—A few months ago a painter-architect-historian-law student-inventor—and withal a cripple—decided Louisville needed a hall dedicated to the use of speakers who believe they have inspirational messages. As a result the C. Lee Cook Free Speech Hall, a municipal forum, came into being.

Here it is regarded as a monument to Cook, who, although he lost control of his limbs in infancy and left school at 7 years of age, has become a wealthy manufacturer in addition to other accomplishments.

When Cook became old enough to realize his deficiency in knowledge, he set to work to educate himself. He is unable to hold a tool in his hands, save through the aid of a mechanical rigging of his own device, but one of his inventions is used in the engine rooms of America's largest battleships.

Another of his feats is the construction of a crosscutting plant in Brunswick, Ga., which was built on five acres of swamp land and which required 160 carloads of machinery for operation.

Not so long ago, he declined a position at $40,000 a year with an eastern concern. His friends are included in every walk of life—excepting beggars.

"Self pity," he declares, "is fatal to success."

Judge is Without Power to Act in Drainage Suit

Mount Sterling, Ill., March 24—(AP)—Judge Fred G. Wolfe, of Quincy, decided in the Brown county circuit court here today that he had no jurisdiction in the injunction brought by Joseph P. Kerr against the Chicago Drainage District, restraining it from emptying the waters of the Chicago and Des Plaines into the Illinois river.

Combines Preaching
and Mine Operating

Sewallsville, O.—(AP)—The Rev. H. O. Teagarden, Methodist minister here, has now a full-fledged coal operator. He has opened what is said to be one of the most up to date mines in Eastern Ohio, with concrete walls and electric lights.

Rev. Teagarden has no notion of giving up his pulpit. "The ministry and the coal mining business can be carried out successfully as a unit," he says.

Nearly 37,000 persons are employed in the printing industry in New York.

ROCHELLE NEWS

Rochelle continues to bustle industrially and with the site being cleared for the new $125,000 theater, the $3,000,000 city plant making money under efficient management and gradually paying off all city indebtedness, its expanding and the Median Highway assured is looking forward to one of the best years in the city's history. A number of new homes will be erected and several apartments will be built.

In anticipation of larger production and in view of the anticipated growth of the business in the next few years, the Geo. D. Whitcomb Company has recently increased its financial credits to take care of the needed enlargement of working capital by creating a first mortgage bond issue against the local properties in the sum of $125,000. The issue has now been underwritten by Chicago bankers and the bonds are being placed on the market for investment as of March 1, 1927. The proceeds for a successful season in the manufacture of the product of the Geo. D. Whitcomb Company are greater than ever before. The business of the company has been steadily growing for the past ten years and the annual volume handled by the local plant now exceeds the $1,000,000 mark per annum.

While its business in the past has been the manufacture of special mining machinery and equipment, it has recently concentrated its efforts on the manufacture of gasoline locomotives for the diversified uses. At the present time the product of the local plant is going into such fields as stone quarries, clay pits, gypsum plants, steel mills, brick yards, sewage disposal plants, etc., also for switching purposes around public utility plants and railroad yards.

It is interesting to know that the products of the local institution is found in foreign markets, recent shipments from the plant having gone to Athens, Greece; Japan, Porto Rico; Trinidad in the West Indies; Mexico, Central and South America and Johannesburg, South Africa. One of the foreign representatives of the corporation is expected to sail for South America within a month to exploit the very fertile fields for haulage equipment in that continent. An order for two large locomotives has also just been received for export to Russia.

The local institution plays an important and vital part in the financial resources of this community, in that practically a third of a million dollars passes through the local banks and finds its way through the financial channels of the local merchants.

An interesting phase of the Whitcomb Company's endeavors is found in the work of the subsidiary company called the Whitcomb Contracting Co., which makes a business of hauling the constituent elements of concrete roads, namely cement, gravel, el, and rock, for paving contractors. At the present time approximately fifty miles of road is being built near Savannah, Ga., and St. Augustine, Fla., with the assistance of Whitcomb machinery. A 18-mile road in Missouri is also being built at the present time by this company.

Whitcomb locomotives and haulage equipment is being used by the Whitcomb Contracting Co., in connection with the new Starved Rock Lock and dam at Starved Rock, Ill., which is being constructed at an expenditure of $1,000,000 by the state of Illinois.

The Whitcomb Company has recently arranged for the purchase of additional machinery and equipment to facilitate the more rapid production in their shops. A 125-horse power 2300 volt 900R. P. M. Westinghouse synchronous motor furnished by the Rockford Power Machinery Co., will be installed so the plant can use City of Rochelle current. Other equipment installed includes a Libbey Turret Lathe, a radial drill, and 10 feet steel shear.

The record of earnings for the Geo. D. Whitcomb Company, in the last six months in the year 1926 are the greatest in any six months' period in the history of the company and the executives of the institution anticipate that the company has started on a period of substantial earnings for its stockholders.

There are approximately 125 people employed at the Geo. D. Whitcomb Co. plant, and by far the greatest number are from local families and belong to the city of Rochelle.

Starting today with the arrival of the initial shipment, the Mid-West Fertilizer Corporation here, are opening a large and extensive farm fertilization program and soil fertility improvement campaign, which represents many thousands of dollars, as well as beneficial results in Ogle county land up-building. The company have made one of the largest purchases of commercial fertilizer occurring on record in this portion of Illinois. This gigantic purchase of 20 cars of bag fertilizer represents a total investment of over $20,000, and amounting to over 500 tons is to be used for the pea and corn crops. As fast as the cars arrive, company teams and employees remove it to the farms upon which it is to be used. That which is arriving at this time, is to be used for the pea acreage.

This commercial fertilizer distribution is a follow-up of an extensive and scientific soil building program started last season by the company. The program is known as a limestone one, in which lime is first spread by the company followed later by rock phosphate. These applications followed by seeding to sweet clover, prepare the soil for sweet clover seeding or growing. Following this plan, (with the plowing under of the sweet clover as a green fertilizer) a crop rotation of corn, peas, and then to small grain and hay is followed. This together with the feeding of cattle upon the farms retains the fertility and keeps the acreage production up to standard. In fact, this systematic plan of development, fertilizing, and rotation, has produced splendid results and refutes the version held by many that the canny crops drain and sap the land, while it really is a systematic plan of building in effect, rather than a tearing down of the soil. Officials at the cannery office state that as a part of the expansion program this spring, large purchases have been made of farm equipment and machinery to facilitate the field activities. General Manager Ralph Brown, who is at this time in San Francisco states that every effort is being made at this full cannery season by advance work.

ROCKFORD FALLS BEFORE EAST ST. LOUIS IN OPENER

Sterling Sectional Winners Completely Outplayed Yesterday

BULLETIN

Urbana, Ill., March 25—(AP)—Second round games in the Illinois high school basketball championship tonight will bring together the semifinalists from Peoria Central and East St. Louis and in the lower bracket Mt. Carmel and Champaign.

The Champaign cagers were the only ones to face a difficult opponent in the first round matches yesterday. Their Mount Olive opponents scored 14 points in the second half but Champaign won 34 to 21.

Peoria Central defeated St. Charles 43-15 and East St. Louis turned back Rockford 35-12.

The Peoria and East St. Louis game brings together about the class of the tournament, according to yesterday's showings.

East St. Louis defeated Rockford, 26 to 12, in the first game of the first round of the Illinois state high school basketball tournament at Urbana Thursday. Peoria Central swamped St. Charles, 42 to 15, in the second game of the tournament, winning the right to meet the East St. Louis team in the first game of the semifinals tonight.

The fast, heavy Peoria team kept a safe margin on the rangy St. Charles boys, making their long shots count heavily throughout the game. Royce Peoria was the star making seven field goals to turn in the most brilliant performance in the opening round of the tournament. St. Charles was held in check by the close guard of the Peoria boys, and most of their shots went wild.

The rangy East St. Louisians passed over the heads of the Rockford outfit and easily outwitted them with their fast floor work. East St. Louis led throughout the game with a 10 to 4 margin at the half. Larsh's work on offense and Terry's keen eye were big factors in outwitting Rockford.

ELBURN PROTEST WILL BE HEARD EARLY IN APRIL

Officials of State H. S. Assn. to Hear Their Story

The protest filed with President C. W. Whitten of the Illinois High School Athletic Association by the Elburn basketball team, in which claim is made that they were given a bad deal in the game with Moline held in Sterling last week, will be given a hearing by the state board the latter part of April.

There is not even a remote possibility that the state board will give any decision that will affect the result of the game or in any way vitiate the sectional tournament. The board has never recognized protests of officials. Such a precedent would keep that body in hot water, for seldom in a tournament is not some team led to believe that they were victims of the officiating.

While there are scores of people who will admit that the officiating in the Elburn-Moline tilt smacked of ineptitude and poor judgment, yet but few of these would care to openly declare that the result might have been different had the work of the referee and umpire been up to par. The two teams, as they played in that game, seemed to be very evenly matched, and it is the opinion of close followers of the game that if Elburn and Moline were matched to meet in a series of games, each and every one of them would be hard fought with the victory in doubt until the final gun.

Bits of News From Leaguers in Their Camps

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Homeward bound, the Cubs have left Catalina Island for their third and final three game series with the California branch of the Coast League.

Manager Schalk of the White Sox sent his southpaw "find" Charley Barnabe for the full nine innings yesterday against Wichita Falls for a 15-5 victory.

Manager McGraw of the Giants turned his attention to Rogers Hornsby and the 1345 shares of Cardinal stock he has failed to sell since he donned a Gotham uniform. Rogers still declines to part with the stock for less than $100 a share.

At the camp of the Yankees, Manager Huggins loaded up with verbal ammunition for a final interview with his star southpaw, Herb Pennock, who has been holding out for a $20,000 salary.

Rube Walberg traveled the full route for the Athletics and beat the Buffalo Internationals yesterday at Falmouth 9-3.

The Philadelphia Nationals at Tampa defeated Washington 12-5.

Humidity is playing havoc with the Red Sox at New Orleans but most of the crimples are back on the diamond.

Manager Moriarty believes he has eliminated any tendency for "individualism" from the Detroit team's play and now has a smooth baseball machine that will make a strong bid for championship honors.

Manager O'Farrell's Cardinals today faced the Quakers of Stuffy McInnis, by whom they were beaten 8-7 last Friday.

At Tarpon Springs the Browns were beaten by Brooklyn 8-4 yesterday.

The Pirates bested the Seals in San Francisco yesterday in a slugfest that ended in a score of 18-11.

While Walter Johnson, Bucky Harris and Tris Speaker are the only Senators suffering from serious injuries, a number of others, including the veteran Sam Rice and Stan Coveleski, have minor complaints.

CUBS LOOK LIKE TROUBLE MAKERS IN COMING RACE

Figured in Running to Worry Four Leading Teams This Year

BY BRYAN BELL

Atlanta, Ga., Mar. 25—(AP)—Two freshmen managers in the National League are about to launch a campaign against a senior and post graduate. A survey by an Associated Press correspondent of southern baseball training camps, find New York, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and St. Louis mentioned on every side in the same breath with pennants.

John McGraw will celebrate this year his 25th season as manager of the New York Giants. Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, has hair grown white in baseball. Owen Bush, chief of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Bob O'Farrell, leader of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, have their spurs to win and will make desperate efforts to tack them on the first year.

Cubs May Spoil Dope. A stock taking of prospects for the new baseball season suggests that the Chicago Cubs will be the athletes to confuse the issue. The Braves, Robins and Phillies apparently have not shown the stuff of which champions are made. The Cardinals, in setting out to repeat, are without the manager who brought them home in 1905, Rogers Hornsby having gone to captain the Giants. His place at second has been capably filled in the spring game by Frankie Frisch. The already strong St. Louis pitching staff has been strengthened by Jimmy Ring.

The Giants in addition to getting Hornsby and his bat from the Cardinals, bolstered their pitching staff with Burleigh Grimes from Brooklyn. Frank Henry, Harper and Rousch will make a good outfield combination if perfected.

Pirates are Favored. Baseball players everywhere this spring have shown an inclination to issue a warning against Pittsburgh on account of Donie Bush, the new manager. Bush is credited by players generally with an aggressiveness that makes its presence felt and he has inherited a good team intact.

Cincinnati has arranged for a number of extra base hits from the bat of George Kelly, late of the Giants, who will play wherever he happens to find himself on the field and Rousch's place probably will be acceptably filled by Christensen.

After causing considerable trouble to other clubs last season the Cubs threaten to start it all over again. A formidable team brought over from 1926 has been strengthened by two recruits, Elwood English and Earl Webb.

Manager Bancroft expects his Braves to go at a faster clip, basing his optimism on recent additions. Brooklyn goes to bat with a good pitching staff and excellent array of catchers, strengthened by the addition of Dutch Henline.

Stuffy McInnis, making his managerial bow with the Phillies, thinks he will get his team out of the cellar.

TAYLOR AND HIS OPPONENT READY FOR BIG MATCH

Both are at Limit of Bantamweight Class and are "Fit"

Chicago, Mar. 25—(AP)—Bud Taylor, Terrie Haute and Tony Canzoneri of New York were virtually at the bantamweight limit of 113 pounds today and ready for their ten round argument tomorrow night over the occupancy of Charley Phil Rosenberg's vacant throne.

In their training Taylor appeared the slinger and Canzoneri the speedy boxer. Measurements gave Taylor a couple of inches advantage in height and reach, but the New Yorker has the heavier shoulders that go with hitting powers. Taylor is 23 and Canzoneri 21.

Promoter Jim Mullen has put up a diamond studded belt for the winner who will likewise claim the bantamweight championship of the world. Rosenberg, the last accredited champion, was separated from the crown by both the Illinois and New York Boxing Commissions.

Flashes of Life

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

FLAVANA—In view of the season possibly the hardships won't be so great for Americans. It is forbidden now by presidential decree to shake dice for the drinks, also poker in clubs is taboo.

New York—Flapperism is causing masculine white collar workers to be in great demand. The Y. M. C. A. is unable to meet the demand for male stenographers, typists and secretaries.

White Plains, N. Y.—Would a wife refuse alimony? One might think the answer would be the same as to "would a fish swim?" Asked by Judge Morschauer how much she wanted, Mrs. Wilhelmina Leemann said: "I don't want any." "Oh, yes, you do," said the judge. "I will make your husband pay $100 a month and you must take it."

Norfolk—James McClellan thinks he is the champion short motorist. He's four feet, 170. His car has extra gears, pedals and other thingamajigs.

Chicago—Tom Brown's saxophone can't lie a-moulding. He'll have to keep testing. The leader of the six Brown brothers sax sextet, divorced, must pay $400 a month alimony, $5,000 cash and then some.

Confessions of Washington Wives

Being Intimate Stories of the Woman's Side of Official Life in the Capital

CHAPTER XVI
Washington—"Do you get cheeses, prairie dogs, or dried prunes?" Get two official women together and this question is very apt to circulate over the tea cups.

It's the same thing as asking "what state are you from?" For by the gifts which the constituents send them may you know the home address.

Official Washington from the great open spaces must find real houses with cellars and garages, not apartments, for livestock depends upon them—horned owls, prairie dogs, beef on the roof, and even rattlesnakes.

Why do the folks at home send such white elephants and black rattlesnakes? Just to show off the grandeur of the state.

From the Fruit Belt. The most envied official set are those from the fruit belt with their crates of apples and oranges and grapefruit, their boxes of raisins and grapes, their figs and dates.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, for instance, always presents a tea table loaded with huge California raisins.

Sometimes the constituents come calling in person with their gifts. Official women, by the way, may rank a certain way according to the State Department and the social secretaries, but among themselves they rank quite differently. Informally, the ones of highest rank are the ones whose home states are farthest from the capital, and those of least degree are those whose home states border the District of Columbia.

A Gift in Hand. The reason is that those whose home addresses are most distant are least bothered with the constituency, while those from bordering climes keep open house continuously.

But, as we were saying, sometimes the visiting constituent brings her gift in person.

Mrs. B. from a milk and cow state received such a visitation. Mrs. B. was giving a party on the day that the constituent arrived—a very swanky party with lobster thermidor, an orchestra, and spun sugar violets on the ice cream.

The morning of the party, the farmer's wife arrived. She had drummed up several hundred votes in her district for said congressman and felt no hesitancy in becoming their house guest. In order to make sure, however, that she would be welcome, she brought with her about a 20-pound cheese from the dairy state.

And It Wasn't Mild. "Now, if it had been mild cheese," said the official lady who told me the tale, "but it wasn't, and not only was it not mild, but she was so glad when she heard I was having a party that night and we could cut the cheese. So we had strong cheese with spun sugar, violets, and my guests pronounced it—behind my back—the 'queerest party they had ever attended.' It was."

When the third congressman home ward wends his weary way at even-fall, his spouse's cheery greeting is: "Well, what did they want today?" Then he tells the gist of the day's mail.

Proud Father Started Something. Three-fourths of it was from those who wanted to come to Washington and shake the president's hand. Reuben Bland, of Georgia, said to be the father of the nation's largest family, who came to see Coolidge, started trouble for the congressmen.

Every mail brings tidings of—The woman with the longest hair in her state—The boy with seven toes—The father with the biggest feet—The best squash pie-maker in her county—

The freaks rarely have funds for the trip. They expect the congressman to send them a ticket and be glad of the chance to shop what his state can produce.

Probably love letters have been received by congressmen and senators from women who boast that they are the best buckwheat cake makers in their state and are willing to come to the White House to flap and flap the president's own, "If an agreeable ware is offered."

And they come, of course, without the state's longest hair or the best squash pie-maker. They come, just plain folk, wanting to see the sights. Their tastes are simple enough. The one priceless boon, of course, is an opportunity to shake Calvin Coolidge's hand.

Since the president shakes hands every noon of his life with those who present themselves with cards from their congressman, it is all very simple, but the smart congressman makes the visitor think that the privilege is a rare boon and that he is signally honored.

Their tastes are simple. But when 67 come in one month, all wishing to see the Washington monument, it means that some official business is going up to the top just 67 times with them.

Why we sell the DUNLOP TIRE

FOR 39 YEARS Dunlop has been building the world's supreme tire. Dunlops wear longer because Dunlop knows how to build better at each vital point.

Take the hidden carcass beneath the tread. Dunlop owns its own cotton mills for no other purpose than to spin the best long-fibre cotton into the famous cable-twist cord that goes into this carcass.

The extra strength in these cords means an added factor of safety against constant load and pounding of roads—longer life and greater mileage.

The extra "stretch" enables the carcass to give under severe blows, and to come back into its original position without internal injury.

The Dunlop tread—the toughest rubber development known—wears slowly and smoothly, making sure that you get out of your Dunlops, all the extra mileage that added care and longer experience have built into them. We recommend that you put Dunlops on your car.

Matinee Ladies

BY William B. Courtney

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"MATINEE LADIES," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picture adaptation of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
Bob Ward, working his way through college, earns money as a dancing partner for rich women in a fashionable New Jersey road-house. Bob thinks it isn't a fit way to make a living; but beggars can't be choosers! At the Inn he sees the prettiest, sweetest girl he has ever laid eyes on—Sally, the cigarette girl. Reciprocating his interest, she warns him against the mysterious and beautiful Mrs. Hammond, habitue of the Inn, who finds her "thrill" in Bob—she is the hunter, not the hunted! Then she and Sally meet enemies in each other.

Sally Smith, the virginal little princess of the cigarettes, whose fluffy innocence was an enchanting stock-in-trade in this sort of a place, was guided by her instincts as unerringly as Mrs. Hammond was by her experience.

Sally flashed a satisfied smile upon Bob. But the real purpose of the smile was a gesture of triumph over Mrs. Hammond.

"Cigarettes, Mrs. Hammond!" Sally repeated, drawing, with just enough infection to annoy Mrs. Hammond.

Receiving Mrs. Hammond's gracefully smiled disclaimer, Sally beamed at Bob again, possessively, then flounced partly away.

Bob, looking after her in frank boyish admiration, likened her gay little tread to a bird's. There was in Bob's eyes, as they drank in the young body of Sally's reedlike slenderness, the light of clean desire, of ardent physical purpose, that Mrs. Hammond coveted for her own statuesque beauty. Mrs. Hammond would have given over a fortune could she but inflame such a look in his eyes.

But Mrs. Hammond was a game, subtle and sly, lighter. To see that look of physical interest—for another woman—in Bob's eyes—she felt her, as nothing else in her life had ever done; but she masked her feelings under a slow smile, as Bob's eyes, leaving Sally, turned to her own again.

"Do I scent—romance?" Bob grinned bashfully, without replying.

"A charming child, little Sally Smith. But, of course—now Bob, please don't mind if I talk like a sister to you. For, you see, I am older than you a good bit in years, and a century in experience. You are so young and new to the things of life that ensnare and trap. You are fair target for every white skin, every bright eye. Now, Bob, I'm not going to preach. But, as a sister would, mind you, I want to ask you to remember only one thing. Your love is a lot more bound up with your future than you can appreciate yet. I know you have never been in love. I know that girls, women, are strange, fearsome, alien creatures to you—rather terrifying creatures, who beset you and bedevil you. But, when you are faced with a choice in love, remember what your friend Della told you—pick a girl mentally worthy of you. Trouble with virtuous youngsters like you, Bob, is that in the instinctive eugenic selective laws of nature, you have an eye only to the girl's physical attractions—her face, her body—"

Bob fidgeted and flushed. Heavens, but this woman—this "sister"—talked to him in a most matter-of-fact intimacy. Such personal things! Bob, recalling his rather old maidish blood sister at home, was quite sure that not only would she never talk to him as Mrs. Hammond was doing now, but that she wouldn't have known what in Pete Mrs. Hammond was talking about! He wished Mrs. Hammond would quit—but she was going on—

—and you neglect to consider her social and mental qualifications at all. Now the social aspect is very important, Bob, really—especially for a man like you who is going to be involved in big business affairs. I'm not a snob, but I've seen many men's careers ruined by a paucity of social graces on the part of their wives. Nice enough little creatures for the most part, but dowdy once they had the peach bloom of youth rubbed off, and utterly incapable of keeping pace with their husbands. Pathetic, don't you know, Bob—this business of marrying beneath one. And, very important, it takes art and skill for a woman to take her youth down the years with her, always—through the aid of a manicurist and milliner, dressmaker and draper!

Mrs. Hammond laughed musically. She had been talking rapidly, and studying Bob the while. In fact she had hardly been conscious of her own words, so much had they been but a smoke screen from behind which she could study him and form her battle plans.

Bob, quite dizzy from the swift flow of words, and wondering what it all meant, was lost in a bewildered silence.

He felt indignant at what seemed a presumptuous attempt to anticipate his thoughts and take eily digs at little Sally Smith; and wanted very much to voice his indignation. But Mrs. Hammond's smile was so disarming, her apparent interest so affectionately detached and sisterlike, as she had claimed it was, that he could not find the gumption to be cross with her.

He did manage to say, quietly: "Is all that directed at little Sally Smith, Mrs. Hammond? Are you trying to warn me against her?"

"Why, Bob," virtuously, "what makes you think and say such a thing?"

"Because if it is," he declared evenly, "I only want to say that I think Miss Smith is an awfully nice little girl and could be quite capable of living up, or growing up, to any social exactions."

"Not a doubt of it!" Mrs. Hammond fluttered her almond-nailed fingers, as if banishing any vagrant doubts of Sally's social possibilities. "She's a very fine little person. Sensible and all that. Anyone can see it with half an eye."

Bob was taken in—fully and unreservedly. His face glowed with unmistakable admiration of Sally Smith, who, nearby, was bargaining with an old dufer—and giving him her usual phoney address.

Mrs. Hammond leaned forward across the table: "My goodness, Bob, I hope I haven't seemed to be stepping upon your toes! I—I didn't know you were interested in Sally Smith. I was discussing only a hypothetical case; giving theoretical advice. Why, I never dreamed—why, you only met her this afternoon for the first time!"

"For the first time, yes—but it seems as though I've known her all my life!"

Bob was not looking at Mrs. Hammond now; his enchanted eyes were fixed upon Sally Smith. Therefore, he could not note the dark scowl that flamed in Mrs. Hammond's deep eyes; the venom, the battle glare, the grim resolve.

Mrs. Hammond wanted Bob Ward. She wanted his splendid manhood, his clean and innocent youth, his strong body.

She was going to fight for him, tooth and nail. No child of a cigarette girl was going to thwart her, to cheat her of the only man she had ever wanted in just this way in her whole varied life.

Mrs. Hammond had waited and searched through many years for the thrill of finding—Bob. That was why she had recognized him for what she wanted almost the instant she had seen him, certainly the first instant she had spoken to him.

But through those years of waiting, seeking, testing, she had accumulated a world of experience; a repository of stratagems and slynesses. She felt confident of her ability to ensnare him.

After all, the added excitement of competition would but serve to augment the thrill of angling for Bob's physical love.

She laughed—a tingling, burning laugh.

Bob itched his gaze back from Sally's precious head, and looked into Mrs. Hammond's face with some surprise and wonder. She vouchsafed no explanation of her solitary mirth, but covered it quickly.

"There's the dance, Bob. The last one. Come—our last dance until tomorrow afternoon!"

They danced.

A little while later, when she was leaving the Palace roadhouse in her usual regal state, with Madam Leonine and her minions pressing attention upon her, Mrs. Hammond caught sight of little Sally Smith standing far across the floor, watching her. Bob was somewhere in between, going towards Sally.

In that moment Mrs. Hammond's musical laugh splintered on her peevish teeth.

Then she was gone.

Sole Survivor of Tragedy Goes Home

Rockford—Zella Knight, age 32, sole survivor of a family of seven wiped out Sunday afternoon, January 23, in a fatal grade crossing accident at Black Hawk avenue and the C. M. & St. Paul tracks, Wednesday left Rockford for Decatur, Mich., where she will become a member of her uncle's and aunt's family, the Rev. and Mrs. Cecil Knight.

Although still showing signs of stiffness when she walks, Zella was able to accompany her uncle and aunt to her new home. Rev. and Mrs. Knight came here Tuesday for their niece, who has been cared for at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Allen, since she left Rockford hospital.

Zella was a patient at Rockford hospital five weeks after the grade crossing accident, just two months ago Wednesday.
